FEATURED REVIEW

Hit Mistry
Vice President at PSC Group, LLC

★★★★★

It Has Streamlined A Lot Of Our Reporting Processes

You can have nontechnical people create reports. It makes it more accessible to almost anyone who knows how to use Microsoft Office. If you know how to use Office, then you know how to maintain, format, and edit a report.

MOST HELPFUL REVIEW

User
Technical Manager at a tech services company with 201-500 employees

Integrates Easily And Enables Us, And Our Clients, To Create Document Templates Using MS Word

It's a good product, it's efficient. We have integrated it in our wealth management product for the last eight years. All our PDF generation, client-advice, client invoices...

We didn't have the flexibility in the formatting that we required, until we found Docmosis

Initially, we did HTML web page to PDF conversions of documents and that proved to be a lot of work with hard coding. We persevered for 12 months...

VALUABLE FEATURES

Jim A.
SVP, Product Development and Quality Assurance at a tech vendor with 11-50 employees

The fact that it uses Microsoft Word and Microsoft Excel as base templates, so when you generate, it's easy for clients to upgrade, and maintain, and generate out either a PDF or an actual Excel spreadsheet...

Sami T.
Database Team Lead at a tech services company

Compared to the original report-generating software, creation of templates in Docmosis - which can be as simple as a Word document - is the biggest plus for Docmosis. There is flexibility in...

ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT

Neil C.
Product Management & Owner at a financial services firm with 11-50 employees

It would be nice to have a black-and-white, ideal setup for servers, to maximize capabilities. We went through a lot of scenarios to get something that is scalable...

DEPLOYMENT

Valarie K.
CEO at OTG

It's very scalable, it almost doesn't even need to be said. It can scale from a small system of five people to a large system with, say, 5,000 people. It's very scalable.

Jonathan C.
CTO at LeaseAccelerator

It was very simple. I think we had it integrated into our system within a day and a half to three days, not just set up and using but actually integrated in. It was crazy simple.

STABILITY

User
Technical Manager at a tech services company with 201-500 employees

I don't have metrics, but I can say that some of our largest clients have on the order of 1,000,000 accounts and they are generating hundreds and hundreds of letters every day using Windward.

SCALABILITY

User
COO/VP Operations & Software Exec at a tech services company with 51-200 employees

I have not seen any scalability issues, I have not seen a performance issues. Usually when we do, it has to do with the SQL portion of it.

Jonathan C.
CTO at LeaseAccelerator

The interesting challenge for us with lease management is that you don't get the types of volume and web traffic you see in more traditional SaaS applications.

CUSTOMER SERVICE

Juliaan K.
IT implementation consultant at BearingPoint Caribbean

Whenever I have an issue, I submit it to technical support and they always answer within the same day, mostly within a couple of hours. Usually, the problem is, and that same day.

ALTERNATE SOLUTIONS

Mike B.
Co-Owner at a tech company

This is my first foray into reporting software. I did evaluate Crystal Reports, and some other well known reporting software. It just seemed to me that Windward would be easier.
